Are you interested in a career that makes a positive impact on California and the world? Would you like to be part of a talented and passionate team committed to developing innovative strategies and recommending public policy solutions that reduce greenhouse gas emissions, promote energy efficiency and reduce our dependence on petroleum? Are you prepared for an exciting challenge? If so, the California Energy Commission, a special funded agency, is seeking exceptional people to build upon California’s transportation energy and energy efficiency successes, and shaping our energy future.

Under the supervision of the Energy Resource Specialist III (Managerial) (ERS III-M) of the Emerging Fuels and Technologies Office, the incumbent supervises and directs multi-disciplinary staff working on a variety of technical and analytical tasks related to increasing the use of alternative and renewable fuels and innovative technologies that transform California’s fuel and vehicle types to help attain the state’s climate change policies.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES: The incumbent will communicate effectively with office manager, subordinates, Executive Office and Commissioners (as appropriate) to accomplish the following:

Plan, organize, supervise, and direct the work of professional staff on a wide range of technical issues related to biofuels production, supply, and infrastructure, including but not limited to analysis and evaluations of transportation fuels, vehicle technologies, and implementation of fuel and vehicle projects; communicate with staff through routine meetings; and perform direct personnel management activities including periodic performance evaluations, discipline, training, monitoring individual performance, individual and team motivation, career development, personnel actions, and provide feedback and coaching to meet performance standards. The incumbent will be responsible for the preparation of budgets and workplans; monitoring the progress and implementation mechanisms to meet workplan objectives and maintain quality control of products; and meeting with the ERS III-M as often as necessary to review the status of the section and resolve issues, in achieving program goals and milestones. The incumbent may present oral testimony and make presentations before the California Energy Commission, other government agencies, industry organizations, and other public forums, and represent the California Energy Commission at public hearings, meetings and conferences with stakeholders, policy makers, and the general public.

DESIRABLE EXPERIENCE/QUALIFICATIONS: The successful applicant should have:

- Demonstrated organizational and leadership qualities in planning, organizing, and directing the work of staff
- Demonstrated supervisory experience and the ability to assess employee performance and prepare written appraisals
- Ability to follow verbal and/or written instructions
- Ability to work independently and under pressure effectively
- Ability to communicate ideas and thoughts effectively with a large diverse technical staff
- Ability to motivate a diverse workforce by providing positive reinforcement, acknowledgement, and recognition
- Ability to plan and determine the goals, objectives, and activities for technical programs and projects
- Experience in preparing and reporting on budgets and workplans and a knowledge of budget and workplan process and procedures
- Ability to make effective presentations and interact effectively with both internal staff and external parties
- Excellent writing skills and the ability to communicate complicated information in a simple, consumer-friendly manner
- Proficiency on a personal computer and knowledge of Microsoft Word, Excel, PowerPoint, and Access
